Ride your 'I voted' post to social media stardom

The Second City NETWORK

John Loos

Editor's note: This is a satire piece submitted by The Second City and should not be taken as RedEye commentary on any candidates or platforms.

On Tuesday, Americans have the unprecedented opportunity to save our country from spray-tanned fascism while also electing our first female president. That means the potential for you to artfully exploit the fact that you voted to achieve social media mega-stardom is not just unprecedented, it's off the [bleep]ing charts.

Think about it: A stupid picture of you holding a coffee with a caption that says "I caffeinated today!" will net you, like, 12 likes, tops. But ... the right pic of you holding an "I Voted" wristband with the caption "I Voted! You should, too!" could—according to some studies-net you eleventy gabillion likes. And hearts. And smiley-tongue faces. This is your moment, so don't waste it! Launch yourself into the social media stratosphere by employing these simple Election Day ideas.

Put vour 'I Voted' wristband on your body in a fun way

Put it on your hat! Or your flexed bicep! Or even put it on your mouth to drive home the point that your vote is your voice! Wherever you put it, make sure it captures your unique, goofy personality and highlights the past three brave months you've spent telling people on Facebook to unfriend you if they support the other candidate. And literally nothing else, because doing actual stuff to change the world is hard.

Livestream how profound vou feel

All 182 of your friends (whom you, for some reason, refer to as your "subscribers") desperately care to hear about every detail of your voting experience. Channel your inner Meryl Streep and broadcast your story via an eloquent Facebook Live monologue filmed in a YMCA bathroom. Emotional honesty = hot sexxxy positive reinforcement. Or, at least, dozens of replies that are just the word Fact: One "THIS" reply is roughly equivalent to 4,322 likes.

Use a stark filter

Aden and Hefe are great for the reds on your "I Voted" wristband, Hudson and Clarendon are excellent for the blues, and any filter's contrast can be cranked up to take advantage of the white.

But perhaps instead of capturing all the colors of your self-satisfaction, you want to evoke the historic nature of Election Day. The Moon filter will add a History Channelish vibe to the picture of you standing outside a middle school, holding a Dunkin' Donuts coffee and wearing a knowing smile that says, "I just solved all the world's problems forever, and now I can just go back to binge-watching 'Jessica Jones.'"

Show us your butt crack

Your suspicion is correct. Everyone wants to see your crack. Sex sells! Just ask every media outlet that's covered Trump's myriad sexual abuse scandals. Speaking of which ...

Say you voted for Trump

Want to really blow up on social media, like in a Chernobyl kind of way? Say you voted for the rage-filled Demogorgon! Your social life will be toast, you'll be unhireable in blue states for at least 10 years, but hey! You'll have gone out in a blaze of glory—and the red circle on the globe of your Facebook app will have double digits in it! For a couple of hours, at least.

But, seriously. I will be proudly posting an "I Voted" photo come Tuesday. You should, too. JOHN LOOS (@JOHNLOOSWINS) IS AN ACTOR, IMPROVISER AND WRITER IN CHICAGO, VISIT JOHNLOOSCOMEDY.COM. GET MORE FROM THE SECOND CITY AT SECONDCITY.COM.

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Here's a list of every candidate and issue you might see while voting in Chicago on Tuesday. The exact ones you get will depend on where you live. Our advice: Go to chicagoelections.com to find your sample ballot, then grab a highlighter and mark all the races and issues that you'll be voting on. Take tonight to do some research and make your picks, check them off right on these pages, then take this with you to the polls tomorrow so you don't have to worry about keeping everyone and everything straight in your memory. Good luck!

DISCLAIMER: CANDIDATES' NAMES ARE WRITTEN AS GIVEN ON THE CHICAGO BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS' WEBSITE (WITH OR WITHOUT MIDDLE NAMES/INITIALS, NICKNAMES, ETC.).
WE'VE LISTED THEM IN THE BOARD'S ORDER, TOO—REDEYE DOES NOT ENDORSE OR DENOUNCE ANY CANDIDATES, SO PLEASE DON'T READ ANYTHING INTO HOW WE'VE PRESENTED THIS INFORMATION.

HEY. BY THE WAY...

Do I have to vote in every category?

Nope! Even if you just vote for president and nothing else, your ballot will still be counted.

Incumbent...?

That's a fancy way of saying "This person currently has this office."

What happens if there's only one candidate for a certain seat?

That person wins, whether they get one vote or a couple million. So you can vote for them or not, whatever you feel like doing, but don't worry too much about it. (That's why we didn't include them on our list of candidates, but you'll see them on your sample and real ballots.)

What's up with write-in candidates?

Sorry, no matter how hard we try, we can't elect Joe Maddon president. The person you're writing in must have filed a "Declaration of Intent to be a Write-in Candidate" in order for your vote for them to count. We've included the approved writein candidates here

l already voted for all my choices in the primary in March. Do I have to vote again?

Yes. The primary and general elections are totally separate—your primary vote doesn't count this time around.

If I voted early in this election but I changed my mind, can I vote again?

No. No. Please don't do that. Sorry about your vote, but you can only cast one ballot per election. Trying to vote more than once is a felony. So, just don't.

What if I messed up and marked the wrong candidate on my paper ballot?

No worries-you can ask the people working to get you a new ballot. Don't forget to give them the old one so they can void it!

WARD MAP AND PARTY BALLOTS

THE TWO DIFFERENT WAYS YOU'LL CAST YOUR VOTE

For over a year and a half, America's political landscape has been geared toward Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2016. Before you race to your polling place (because you'll be oh so excited to let this election season die, right?), know what'll be in store for you.

Optical scan ballots: Next to each candidate's name, there will be an arrow with the center portion blank. To cast your vote, complete the line from one end of an arrow to the other next to your preferred candidate's name with a pen provided by an election judge-no bright pink gel pens, this isn't the fifth grade. You don't need to make the line as thick as the two ends of the arrow. One solid line will do. Once you've finished marking your ballot, an election judge will scan it through a machine that looks kind of like a large fax machine—this is the "optical scan" part. Voila, you've done your civic duty.

Touchscreen voting systems: Once you've checked in with an election judge, he or she will give you a voter card, which you'll insert into the yellow slot at the bottom right of the machine until you feel it click into place. For each office, touch the box next to your preferred candidate's name, making sure that it gets marked with an "X." If you make a mistake or have a sudden change of heart, you can change your vote by touching the same candidate once more to de-select before selecting the candidate you actually want. Once you've scrolled through each office on the ballot, you'll be able to review a paper record of your ballot (with the option to "Return to Ballot" to fix any mistakes). Once you're done reviewing, or if you just want to say "[bleep] it" and be done, select "Cast Ballot." You done did it.

Now sit back and relax for another two years before the midterms come around. Ah, democracy.

BALLOTISSUES

The candidates get most of the attention, but there are several issues up for consideration in this election, too. Note that most of these are just advisory referenda to give officials an idea of how the public feels about these issues; ones where your votes actually directly decide what happens are marked "binding." Study up before you head to the polls.

FOR THE WHOLE STATE (BINDING)

"For the proposed addition of Section 11 to Article IX of the Illinois Constitution." Adding Section 11 would set the rule that money generated from transportation-related taxes and fees-motor fuel taxes, vehicle registration fees, etc.- could only be spent by the state or local governments for transportation-related purposes. Those would include the enforcement of transportation and vehicle laws; the construction and upkeep of highways, mass transit and railroad crossings; workers' comp claims for transportation agency employees; and more.

According to a mailing from the Illinois Secretary of State, the argument for this amendment is that it would provide "a dedicated source of funding" for improvements to the state's roads, bridges, mass transit and more, and would end the practice of using portions of transportation funds for nontransportation purposes. The argument against is that it would restrict governments' abilities to spend public revenues as they and taxpayers see fit, potentially leading to cuts to education or social service programs.

FOR THE WHOLE COUNTY

Whether the Office of the Cook County Recorder of Deeds should be eliminated, with its duties and responsibilities being transferred to the Office of the Cook County Clerk by December 7, 2020. According to the county's website, the Recorder of Deeds' office "records, stores and maintains land records and other official documents in perpetuity for public and private use, facilitating home ownership and mortgage lending." It also works to prevent property fraud—when someone files documents that make it look like they own your property, for example. The current Recorder of Deeds is Karen A. Rianne Coale » rcoale@redeye chicago.com Hey, it's almost Election Day! And while you might be revved up to get out and vote (because you should be), there are a few things you should know before you go.

You definitely don't want to waltz into the wrong polling place, forget important identification items or commit a crime you may not know is one. So before you hit the ground running, give this list a look-over to best prepare yourself to carry out your civic duty in Chicago.

How do you find your polling place?

If you are not sure where your assigned polling place is located, there are some resources online that can help you figure that out. You can visit chicagoelections.com to find your precinct polling place. All you have to do is enter your address (and maybe your last name, but only if you're registered already under that name at that address).

If you've moved into another precinct since you last voted, you'll have to go to the polling place assigned to your new address. You'll be able to update your voter registration address at that location. But don't forget to bring two forms of identification with you, one of which must include your current address.

Can you vote somewhere other than your designated polling place?

Nope. If you're voting on Election Day, you must vote only at the polling place assigned to your precinct.

What should you bring with you to your polling place?

Besides yourself, you should probably have your voter registration card and an ID, just in case. You typically don't need an ID if you're already registered to vote and are voting in your correct precinct, your signature matches the one on file and the election judges have no questions about your registration.

You will, however, need TWO forms of identification if you're registering in person, filing an address change in person or filing a name change in person in your home precinct on Election Day. Acceptable forms of ID include (but are not limited to) a passport; a driver's license or state ID; a college or work ID; a credit or debit card; your Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid or insurance card; or a bank statement, utility bill or official mail from any government agency.

Jim Allen, a spokesman for Chicago's Board of Election Commissioners, suggests studying your sample ballot online and making a cheat sheet with the candidate "punch" numbers to make voting go much quicker. (You can use Pages 6-9 of this paper to help you with that.)

What's the average amount of time it takes to vote?

Sometimes you show up to your polling place and are in and out in no time; other times you may have to wait in line to cast your ballot. In Illinois, the average wait time to vote is between 11 and 20 minutes, according to the Los Angeles Times. But Allen said the wait could be shorter depending on the circumstances.

"Organized voters with no line could be in and out in 8 minutes. If there's a line, or if you need to use Election Day Registration, it may take much longer," he said. "If you want to beat the lines, use Early Voting ... All 51 Chicago Early Voting sites are open 10 a.m.-4 p.m."

But once you're inside the booth, it's up to you. It could take a few minutes or a lot longer depending on the amount of time it takes you to fill out your ballot.

What should you NOT do while at your polling station?

You've got one job, which is to vote. So to ensure that it goes seamlessly, we advise against doing a few things.

Obviously you can take your phone with you to vote, but don't take pictures (ballot selfies included) inside the polling station. It may seem harmless to you, but it's actually illegal in Illinois and could earn you one to three years in prison. And you could inadvertently reveal how someone else voted, and that's a big no-no too.

"If any voter feels someone is attempting to intimidate them or urge them to vote a certain way inside the polling place or the campaign-free zone, contact the Election Board at 312–269–7870 or the U.S. Attorney's Office or Illinois Attorney General's Office," Allen said.

So don't try to solicit votes for a particular candidate at your polling place or wear party-supporting clothing. And it's also best not to have any political discussions inside your polling place. Get in, vote and get out of there.

ELECTION JUDGES ARE THE PEOPLE MAKING SURE THINGS GO SMOOTHLY (FOR THE MOST PART) ON ELECTION DAY

By Paul M. Banks | FOR REDEYE

LECTION JUDGES ARE THE UNSUNG HEROES OF ELECTION DAY.

Judges receive compensation of $50 for their training, which includes both lecture-based learning and hands-on experience, and $140 for the 5 a.m. to 7 p.m. shift they'll work on Tuesday.

Laurie Grimm, assistant manager of community service for the Chicago Board of Elections, made it very clear that judges must get there at the early hour.

"Set three alarms, have a fellow election judge call you," she suggested while conducting a training session. "We're all in the same miserable boat together."

Who are election judges?

In Chicago's 2,069 voting precincts, an estimated 14,000 poll workers (made up of election judges and election coordinators) will oversee the opening of the polls at 6 a.m, as well as their closure at 7 p.m.

"You cannot disenfranchise any voter who attempts to vote within those hours. That is very strict," Grimm said to her class.

The Chicago Board of Elections appoints

a minimum of five judges to serve in each precinct, but some precincts may have more than five. In even-numbered precincts, three Democratic judges and two Republican judges are assigned. In odd-numbered precincts, it's three Republicans and two Democrats.

Election judge candidates are selected by ward committeemen who have access to the voter's presidential primary voting records. Grimm could not say whether voting history plays a role in selection.

On Election Day, however, judges must maintain an electioneering-free zone at their polling stations. There can be no party propaganda, candidate paraphernalia or even discussion of the issues, or candidates, within 100 feet of the voting booths.

All judges must take a mandatory, signed oath of office, and they also possess "swear-in" authority. This means that in the event that an assigned judge does not report to the polling place on Election Day, the other judges may "swear in" another person to serve in their place. However, that person must be a registered voter within the same precinct and represent the same political party as the absent judge.

All potential election judges must be registered voters "in good standing, not a sex offender or anything," according to Grimm.

The city also employs high-school-aged election judges, who must meet these requirements: consent of a parent or guardian, consent of their principal and maintaining at least a 3.0 GPA.

If the individuals at the training session were any indication, election judges are a very diverse group. Multiple age and racial demographics were represented, including Millennials, such as 23-year-old Margaret Kellas.

"I grew up with a lot of advantages, and getting involved in this election is just the first

I grew up with a lot of advantages, and getting involved in this election is just the first step of what I hope to do in the future. The city is part of my identity, and I'm trying to get more informed about how this city works.

-Margaret Kellas, a 23-year-old Chicago resident and election judge step of what I hope to do in the future," said Kellas, a lifelong Chicago resident. "The city is part of my identity, and I'm trying to get more informed about how this city works."

Claims of 'rigged' voting, fraud

Voter fraud is a hot discussion topic this election cycle as Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump has made claims on the campaign trail that Election Day will "be rigged" against him.

Prior to 2016, it was unprecedented for a major party nominee to pre-emptively denounce the integrity of the electoral process. In the third and final presidential debate last month, Trump declared a reluctance to accept the results of Election Day; this is also a first.

"In my close to 30 years of having worked here, never once had I even thought about it," Grimm said when asked about potential voter fraud before addressing stereotypes of the local electoral process. "I think [some] people live in the '50s and '60s, and they don't get that out of their mind.

"Just like [when] you go to a different country, and they go, 'Oh, Chicago, Al Capone,' or they reference the Windy City, not knowing it's a political name, and say, 'Oh, it's so windy there.' It's what sticks in people's minds."

PAUL M. BANKS IS A REDEYE CONTRIBUTOR.

MILLENNIALS AT THE POLLS

There are now more Millennials in America than Baby Boomers. Thus the youngest demographic of the electorate could tremendously influence the electoral result, should they decide to truly turn out.

Margaret Wheeler Johnson is the managing editor for Romper.com, a website for Millennial moms run by Bustle.com. Johnson has done extensive research on Millennial voters and shared some of her findings with RedEye.

"Millennial turnout ended up being low in 2012—only 41 percent of those 18-24 voted, compared to 72 percent of seniors and 48.5 percent of Millennials 18-24 who voted in 2008," said Johnson, a former lifestyles editor at the Huffington Post.

"There's reason to believe Millennial turnout will be a lot higher this time," Johnson continued. "For one thing, in comparison to this year's election, the stakes in 2012's Obama/Romney matchup feel adorably low. We had two highly qualified candidates, both sane and decent, with respectable records in politics. This year is a whole other beast, and the stakes feel higher to many young people."

Margaret Kellas, a 23-year-old local election judge, also believes there's potential for tremendous Millennial turnout on Tuesday.

"This election will bring about change. It's up to us to decide what that change is," said Kellas, a lifelong Chicago resident. "We, as a city, have been mentioned multiple times throughout this election. I hate that we are viewed by some politicians as a statistic instead of a beating heart."

Kellas believes that one of the stereotypes most commonly associated with her generation-being constantly connected to their smartphones-will serve as an advantage due to the easy, free access to credible information.

"Millennials are often defined by how easy we have it because of the presence of technology, and I don't believe that to be a bad thing. It has made us more informed, and I think that will be apparent on Tuesday," she said.

"At this point, if someone is not voting or hasn't decided, that is on them alone for not seeking out the multitudes of information available to them, which sounds pretty lazy and entitled to me."

Scorpio Oct. 23-Nov. 21 Communication with you and your love will improve beautifully this week. From Friday until Dec. 7. conversations between you and your sweetheart will be calmer and more enjoyable. If there is a decision you need to make about your love life. you'll be able to address it with a perfect blend of logic and emotion. The same will be true if you and your partner have a financial decision to make together.

Sagittarius Nov. 22-Dec. 21 You'll have a tremendous edge this week in all communication matters. The courage to speak your mind will be incredible, and your partner is sure to notice. While you won't necessarily be argumentative, you will be opinionated, so you'll need to be mindful about how your words come across. Your mate will appreciate your ability to convey your ideas truthfully, but don't forget that conversations are a two-way street.

Capricorn Dec. 22—Jan. 19 Your love life is about to become more enjoyable. From Friday until Dec. 7. you'll become more confident and graceful, and will want to do something to enhance your beauty. Even a tiny change to your appearance will be noticed by others. If you're single, this will surely attract more dating prospects your way. If attached, you'll feel more loved and appreciated by your partner.

Aquarius Jan. 20—Feb. 18 You'll feel a surge of energy this week and will know you can accomplish anything you set your mind to. This level of bravado will help you with entrepreneurial projects or other goals, but it'll also boost your libido, and you'll surprise your partner with a higher-than-usual interest in sex over the next few weeks. After Friday, you might want to take your sweetheart on a private getaway.

Pisces Feb. 19—March 20 Your love life will be connected to your social life in a supportive way after Friday. Consider allowing one of your pals to set you up on a date, or think about exploring the mutual chemistry you and one of your pals have. Perhaps it's time to stop dancing around the subject and finally name the elephant in the room.

C Aries March 21—April 19 A friends-with-benefits situation might begin to gel this week. Although you and a pal have shared sexual chemistry for quite some time, neither of you wanted to make a move. After Wednesday, however, you two might find it impossible to ignore the sparks between you any longer. Fortunately, it appears to be positive decision.

Taurus April 20—May 20 If you're single, after Friday you'll have prospects to meet someone who has a background unique from your own. This person might even be from another part of the world, so if you're scheduled to travel overseas, you might meet him or her during your travels. If not, it'll be easy to meet someone with a different cultural or religious perspective. The differences will be exactly what draws you to one another.

Gemini May 21—June 20 You and your partner will focus more on shared financial matters after Friday. Perhaps the two of you are newly married or just moved in together. If so, meshing your finances for the first time is serious business, and it requires joint cooperation and much discussion. Fortunately, until Dec. 7, you'll have an edge figuring it all out. Communication is favored for you and your mate from Nov. 12 to Dec. 2.

Cancer June 21—July 22 Although you and your partner might have to address an aggravating expense together after Wednesday, there will be little fighting between you over it. After Friday, you'll handle any financial hurdle together seamlessly. In other news, if you're dating someone, there's a good chance the two of you will feel it's time to make a more solid commitment to one another Yes!

Leo July 23-Aug. 22

You and your partner might realize that your relationship is under construction this week. From Wednesday until Dec. 19, it'll be clear that someone is bothering one or both of you. Angry feelings-even a temper tantrum-will need attention. Consider doing what you can to clear the air in the healthiest way possible. The good news? Make-up sex, of course!

Virgo Aug. 23—Sept. 22 If you're single, romantic prospects will flourish after Friday. From then until Dec. 7 will be a brilliant time to branch out and accept dating invitations. Meet up with friends more often and remain open to new experiences. While you're out socializing, you could be introduced to someone special.

ample opportunity for dating and having more fun. If you're attached, you and your lover will enjoy spicing things up in the bedroom.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 22 take heart. After Wednesday you'll notice that you're feeling friskier than you have in quite some time. Getting your sexy back has never been easier. If you're single, there will be

This election season has been nothing to laugh about. OK, there's been a lot to laugh about, but less in a ha-ha way and more in a "laugh to keep from crying" kind of way. If you, like most people, can't wait for Tuesday to come and go, these Twitter accounts will help you laugh through the sense of impending doom. Some are informative, some are bizarre, but all will help you survive until then. Good luck, and may the odds be ever in your favor come Tuesday.
